Shared Roots Mediation

Shared Roots Mediation is a dispute resolution practice that applies the principles and processes of restorative justice to address sexual harm and help bring healing, accountability, and community to survivors.

Sexual harm can cut a person off from their roots and their community. The criminal legal system continues to sever these roots and discourages accountability, apology, community, and connection. Restorative justice can help meet needs for persons who have experienced sexual harm. At Shared Roots, we seek to connect survivors to a healing community that will help them strengthen or grow new roots that promote resilience and connection.

PODCASTS & BLOGS:

Sentenced to Life

Join co-hosts Dr. Jason Lahood and Kendall Alaimo as they smack down some real talk about mental health. They met by serendipity as patients at a ketamine clinic in Chicago that "sentenced them to life." They both battle with lifelong PTSD and are experts in the field of trauma recovery. Through this podcast they are making noise through their mental health megaphones in order to break stigma. This sometimes comedic podcast takes a unique perspective on all things mental health through interviews with clinical experts, trauma survivors and everyday folks who just wake up on the wrong side of the head.

National Sexual Violence Resource Center

<https://www.nsvrc.org/>

The NSVRC's mission is to provide leadership in preventing and responding to sexual violence through collaboration, sharing and creating resources, and promoting research. They provide resources for survivors, family and friends, advocates and educators, and media. They translate research and trends into best practices that help individuals, communities and service providers achieve real and lasting change.

Bystander Intervention – UIC.edu

<https://sexualmisconduct.uic.edu/education-and-training/bystander-intervention/>

Bystander intervention is a prevention strategy that encourages witnesses to take safe action when they see a situation that might lead to sexual violence or abuse, and to support victims after an incident. As a bystander, you can serve a critical role in preventing interpersonal violence. It is just like the public transportation safety campaigns; "If you see something, say something."

STOP Sexual Violence: Bystander Toolkit

<https://www.health.ny.gov/publications/2040>

Bystanders are individuals who observe violence or witness the conditions that perpetuate violence. They are not directly involved but have the choice to intervene, speak up, or do something about it. Bystander intervention is the act of feeling empowered and equipped with the knowledge and skills to effectively assist in the prevention of sexual violence. This Toolkit is a PDF created by the New York State Department of Health to help train and create awareness.

TRAININGS:

Chicago Children's Advocacy Center
